Lawyers in Battle Over Kufahl Fate, Jury Gets Case

BULLETIN. (By Staff Correspondent) Elkhorst—The case of Kufahl was given to the jury at 3 o'clock. Judge Fowler's instructions were short and to the point. A verdict is looked for tonight.

(By Staff Correspondent) Elkhorst—Jury with the duty of making the decision of whether Ernest Kufahl is innocent or guilty of first degree murder in the poisoning of Edward J. Schaudt, White-water, a 12-man jury retired from the circuit court rooms here shortly after 3 o'clock Monday to deliberate.

Edward Schaudt drank the poison; Edward Schaudt died; and Edward Schaudt was buried in that beautiful cemetery over at White-water today because of the unholy love of Ernest Kufahl and Myrtle Schaudt, declared Jay W. Page, assistant state's attorney in his argument Monday afternoon. He declared Schaudt's death was the result of a diabolical plot between Kufahl and Myrtle Schaudt to get him out of the way for their own happiness, declaring they had a common motive. Kufahl won a little under Page's fiery talk.

The case was submitted to the jury with the instructions to find Kufahl guilty or not guilty of first degree murder only, and not on any other count.

Closing of the case Monday, arguments were heard and instructions given by the presiding judge, Chester A. Fowler, was marked by many dramatic moments.

From 3:16, when court opened, until more than an hour had elapsed in the afternoon, the jury heard District Attorney Alfred Godfrey and his assistant, Jay W. Page, speak for the state; and attorneys Nicholas Thauer, Watertown, and W. C. Zabel, Milwaukee, for the defense.

Still resting from the strain of hours on the stand, Myrtle Schaudt, whose trial for the poison death is expected to open Wednesday, was confined to her bed in jail.

Ernest Kufahl sat throughout the arguments unmoved. His father, at his side, was moved to tears several times and was comforted by his daughter. After the close of the morning session, however, the elder Kufahl left the court room.

State's Contention.

The contention of the state was summed up by the introductory arguments advanced by District Attorney Godfrey when he declared "that the defendant and Myrtle Schaudt, jointly and in concert, killed Edward Schaudt by giving him poison on March 18, 1922, and that the defendant, with Myrtle Schaudt, is guilty of murder in the first degree."

Myrtle Schaudt was infuriated with Kufahl to a point where she assisted in taking the life of her own husband, the district attorney said.

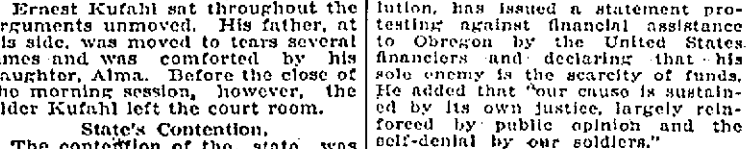

"When she killed Kufahl for 15 months following the death of her husband, and refused to implicate him after her arrest, she did the natural thing," Mr. Godfrey said. "It was not until she was told to or physically unable to hold up longer that she unwittingly dropped the remarks that implicated Kufahl."

Mr. Godfrey pointed to the acts of Kufahl on the night of the murder as significant. Referring to the conversation which Kufahl had with members of the family concerning where the body was placed, Mr. Godfrey said: "If Kufahl had no part in this crime, what was his concern where Ed Schaudt's body was placed? There was something weighing on this man's mind when he asked those questions."

He pictured Kufahl as a home-wrecker who was even on top of life itself to accomplish his end. It was the district attorney's contention that Myrtle Schaudt in her second confession told the truth when she implicated Kufahl.

FINAL ARGUMENTS ON REVENUE BILL ON HOUSE FLOOR

REPUBLICANS CONTINUE CONFERENCES WITH INSURGENTS. FIGHT OVER RATE Regular Leaders Balk at 50 Per Cent Cut in Normal Figures.

Washington. Final arguments in the four-day general debate on the revenue bill occupied the house today while republican leaders continued conferences with the insurgent members of their party in an effort to gain a majority for the vote on the income tax rate schedules which will be taken up tomorrow.

Two conferences Saturday brought a definite offer from the insurgents, led by Frazier and Nelson, Wisconsin, for a 40 percent maximum surtax rate if the normal rates were cut in half, but the republican leaders, actor derling to go as high as 37 1-2 percent on the surtaxes, refused flatly to agree to the 50 percent cut in normal rates. The Mellon proposals, embodied in the bill, provide for a 25 percent reduction in the normal rates and the republican chiefs insist the treasury estimates have shown a further cut is not possible if sufficient revenue is to be raised.

The organization republicans first decided to boost the surtax maximum to 45 percent—10 percent higher than the Mellon figure—in an effort to unite the party against the stand of democrats for a 44 percent rate. The plan was to have the rate would be supported by only 283 republicans with 218 votes needed for adoption. Negotiations then were opened with the insurgents who had stood for the present 50 percent maximum surtax rate.

MELLON MISLEADS ON BONUS, CHARGE

Legion Pushing Campaign After Juggling of Estimates Is Claimed.

New York—American Legionnaires were pushing their campaign for an ex-service men's bonus today with renewed vigor after a sensational report in the press that the treasury department was accused of "juggling" its estimates against the project and Secretary Mellon was charged with "misleading" the president.

The charge of "juggling" was made by Col. Thomas W. Miller, head of the "American Legion" meeting. He said a "high treasury official" had admitted the alleged manipulation of the figures to him and that the present estimates were dishonestly increased each time congress requested a revision "because it was felt necessary that the treasury department should make stronger and stronger arguments against the bonus each time it came up."

Representative Benjamin L. Fairchild, republican of New York, said Secretary Mellon "misled" Mr. Harding in anticipating a $600,000,000 deficit when events proved there was a $300,000,000 surplus in the treasury. This $600,000,000 deficit, Mr. Fairchild asserted, prevented President Harding, perhaps more than any other feature, from signing the bonus bill.

Alvin C. Owsley, former national commander of the legion, told his hearers the bonus would pass the house by a 5-1 vote and get a majority in the senate by a similar passing over the veto of Calvin Coolidge.

SENATOR STILL IN CRITICAL CONDITION FROM GUN WOUND

Washington—Senator Greene of Vermont, the victim of a prohibition chase within the chamber of the capitol, remained in a serious condition this morning, no change having been observed during the night.

The bullet which hit him over the left eye Friday night while he was passing an alley in which two men in an automobile were being pursued by a prohibition enforcement party did not penetrate the skull. It drove a bone splinter into his brain, however, necessitating a delicate operation. He showed some improvement yesterday, but his physicians described his condition as still serious.

They added, however, that he was resting as comfortably as could be expected.

"I am a candidate for nothing," he answered, emphatically.

MAILS HAMPERED BY DOCK STRIKE IN BRITISH PORTS

London—The dock strike, which was declared Saturday, affecting 120,000 men, is expected to reach full effectiveness today, officials of the transport and general workers' union stated.

No hope is based on action of the "blue ticket union," a new and hitherto unrecognized rival of the Transport Workers' union, which has recommended a "stay-in-strike" under which men would continue on duty but go slow on piece work and refuse overtime. This action is viewed not as embodying any altruistic motive toward the public but as aimed at injuring the transport union and enforcing recognition of the blue tickets by employers, who have hitherto ignored the organization's existence.

The strike is already threatening to affect the newspapers through a shortage of newspaper supplies. Mails to and from America are likely to be tied up at the docks on this side for the duration of the strike unless some emergency arrangement for handling them is made. It was indicated at the general postoffice.

MC ADOO LEADERS MEET TO DECIDE CANDIDATE'S FATE

EFFECT OF OIL PROBE ON CANDIDACY IS SUBJECT. 300 ARE PRESENT Judge David L. Rockwell of Ohio Presides at Vital Conference.

Chicago—More than 300 advocates of the candidacy of William Gibbs McAdoo for the democratic nomination for president, gathered here today to hear Judge David L. Rockwell of Ohio open the conference which will decide whether the Teapot Dome disclosures have or have not made Mr. McAdoo unfit to continue his candidacy for the democratic nomination for president.

"Not one democratic official and no one person mentioned in connection with the democratic presidential nomination has been touched by the revelations," said Judge Rockwell.

"A special attempt has been made to discredit Mr. McAdoo, but it is known and admitted everywhere that Mr. McAdoo had no connection, directly or indirectly, with these scandals."

The mere statement of the situation reveals the absurdity of the suggestion that there has been any impairment of his strength as a candidate.

"The forces of liberalism have gathered around Mr. McAdoo, to continue the struggle which began in 1913 to free American institutions from the thralldom of special privilege."

VON KAHR, LOSSOW, MILITARY BOSSES OF BAVARIA, QUIT

Munich, Bavaria.—Dr. Von Kahr, the Bavarian military dictator, has resigned. General Von Lossow, commander of the Bavarian Reichswehr, has tendered his resignation.

The trial of General Ludendorff and Adolf Hitler for their part in the national "putsch" in Bavaria last November was to have been begun in Munich today. Hitler who has been organizer and leader of the Bavarian fascists, was wounded during the fighting and he has been said an operation might prevent his appearance for trial. Hitler's supporters have been threatening another putsch which they declared would prevent the trial of their leader in any event, and it has been reported that all parties were making plans to bring about the trial by force or by abandonment of the political bitterness which it would be certain to stir up anew.

For some time, there have been rumors that Dr. Von Kahr would resign as dictator. He has been constantly under guard because of threats of attack on the part of ruffian elements who threaten to bring Ludendorff and Hitler to trial.

BRIGHT LIGHTS LAND PAIR IN BELOIT COURT

Beloit.—Because he tried to show the bright lights of Beloit to his brother, who has been over here three months, Julius Loffness and the brother each paid fines of $25 and costs in municipal court here Monday morning.

The men were nabbed in the Race street house of William James, a local light house, and charged with disorderly conduct on a statutory charge. One of the girls in the case was released on $25 bail, which she jumped and is thought to have gone back to Chicago.

Walter Bell, colored, was arrested here Saturday night by men of Lieut. Williams police force, alleged to have seized a "hot" car, driven by a white man. The white man identified the colored one, the latter upon arraignment being let out on $500 bail.

A Footville man was fined $5 and costs Monday for drunkenness.

YEGGS AGAIN ARE FOILED AT THEATER

Theater robbers lost out again Sunday night in their second attempt in two weeks in Janesville, when the box office of the Myers theater was entered between 5:15 and 6 p. m. and a flash-light stolen. Had it not been for precautions taken by the ticket seller, Ray Cullen, the intruders might have been $200 to $300 to the good, but Cullen took the money and ran.

Entrance was gained through a rear exit and the door into the box office was broken open.

Two women, who were cracking the safe at the Beverly theater but got nothing, as the week-end receipts had been deposited in another safe.

DULUTH HAS $25,000 BLAZE

Duluth.—Fire swept the Sloan block shortly before last midnight and destroyed a two-story structure. Four stores in the building suffered from the blaze. The total loss was estimated at $25,000. "Benny's" hardware store, the Magnuson Candy store and the Smith Drug company were damaged.

Alvin C. Owsley, former national commander of the legion, told his hearers the bonus would pass the house by a 5-1 vote and get a majority in the senate by a similar passing over the veto of Calvin Coolidge.

DENIES NEW OIL SESSION

Washington—Chairman Lenroot denied today a widely published report that a sensational development had led to the calling of a meeting today of the senate oil committee. The chairman said there had been no change in the committee's plans and that the calling of a meeting was a fiction. The committee had been in session when the ten day recess was taken last Friday.

HEARINGS SET FOR MARCH 15

Madison—Hearing on the state's case against George Daltes, involving validity of provisions of the state prohibition law, today was set for March 15 before the supreme court. The case of the United States Fidelity and Insurance company against State Insurance Commissioner Smith, involving validity of health and accident policies, was set for the same day, as was the second test case of the building heights law.

PREPARE MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

Milwaukee—No motion for judgment of the verdict in the case of Joe Jackson against the Chicago club of the American league had been filed at noon today, but attorneys for Jackson announced that they would file a motion for a new trial in the case of preparation. Friday, Jackson was awarded $16,711.04 under a baseball contract he signed in 1920 to play with the Chicago White Sox. The court, however, set the verdict aside on the ground that the same had been obtained on perjury testimony.

Navy Secretary Quits Cabinet as Oil Battle Wages

Washington.—Edwin B. Denby has resigned as secretary of the navy and his resignation has been accepted. After repeatedly declaring he never would quit the cabinet under the fire of those who have criticized his part in the oil leasing program, the secretary notified President Coolidge this morning that he was ready to step out. His decision followed a telephone consultation between the president and Mr. Denby, in which all of the latest aspects of the situation were talked over in the light of information passed on to the White House by republican leaders in the senate.

Recently a number of the secretary's friends also have been consulted by Mr. Coolidge, and they are understood to have advised the president that they fully understood the embarrassment that might result in retaining Mr. Denby in the cabinet while the oil annulment suits are in progress.

How He Figures In.

Not only is he a party to the oil leases, having affixed his signature along with that of Albert B. Fall, Denby is repeatedly being defended by his part in the proceedings and has declared publicly since the present controversy arose that he believed the contracts legal and would be willing to pursue the same course again.

It has been pointed out to the president that it might appear inconsistent to have a member of the administration holding these views in office while the administration itself, through its counsel, was moving in the courts to annul the leases on the ground that they were made without authority of law. For the same reason there have been reports that Theodore Roosevelt also would retire as assistant secretary under Mr. Denby, but Mr. Roosevelt has said he is not in the framing of the oil leases.

Has Nothing to Say.

The decision in favor of a resignation apparently was reached soon after Mr. Coolidge went to his office this morning. A formal announcement was deferred. B. T. Clark, one of Mr. Coolidge's secretaries, visited Mr. Denby's office to consult as to what form the announcement should take. Mr. Denby soon afterwards left the navy department by a private entrance, eluding newspaper men, and left word that for the present he would have nothing to say.

Daughter May Follow.

The retirement of the navy secretary also revived rumors that the resignation would follow within a few days.

A resolution relating to him, and somewhat similar to that adopted some days ago asking for the resignation of Mr. Denby, was introduced in the senate, and its sponsors are pressing for quick action on it.

The resolution in which the president was advised to retire in office, was introduced by Sen. Charles McNary, D. Ore., and was adopted on February 11, with the republican organization leaders opposing it but with 10 republicans voting in support. The vote was 47 to 34.

President in Statement.

Immediately after it was sent to the White House, the president issued a statement declaring that such questions lay wholly within the province of the executive, but adding:

"The president is responsible to the people for his conduct. He is active to the retention or dismissal of public officials. I assume that responsibility, and the people may be assured that I shall not act with entire justice to all parties concerned and fully protect their interests. I shall not, as I have said, resign. I shall try to maintain the functions of the government, to the best of my ability, and to deal thoroughly and sympathetically with every kind of wrong doing."

He expected the effective date of Secretary Denby's resignation to be March 1.

None from Russia.

Mr. Denby's resignation, an original member of President Harding's cabinet, having taken office on March 4, 1921.

This selection brought to that department for the first time in many years a man who knew by personal experience the viewpoint of enlisted men, both in the navy and in the army, and who, besides, having a gunner's mate aboard the converted cruiser Yosemite during the war with Spain, and through all ranks and grades from private to major in the marine corps during the World war. Mr. Denby also had a background of personal information as to the situation in China and in the Orient generally, which he drew from 10 years' employment in the international customs service in China when that service was directed by Sir Robert Hart. The service of Mr. Denby began during the time that his father, Charles Denby, of Evansville, Ind., was American minister to Peking.

Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, in the absence of Mr. Denby, declared Harry Payne Whitney and members of the E. B. K. Brokerage firm in New York, undoubtedly would be summoned before the committee as a result of information that has reached the capitol.

To Play at Clinton.—A team composed of members of the Junior club of the Y. M. C. A., is expected to meet a Clinton team at basketball there Saturday. It is probable that a team representing the Triangle club will also go.

BULLETIN—Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, announced after half an hour's conference with President Coolidge today that he would not resign as the result of the retirement of Secretary Denby.

"I have just been to see the president and I am not resigning," Mr. Roosevelt said.

What these new angles involve was not made public.

George, according to his alleged statement Saturday, shot his sister at their farm home near Cady because he feared she was deserting him to "devote" her life to "selling" him. He then took a stove poker and beat her on the head.

COUNTY POULTRY CLUB IS STARTED

Officers Are Elected — Next Meeting to Be Held on March 15.

An effort to improve the poultry of Rock county was furthered Saturday afternoon by the organization of the Rock County Poultry Association during a meeting held in the court house. The association is open to all poultry raisers in the county and its leaders have in view the introduction of better strains, pushing of junior clubs, culling of the flocks, keeping of records and formation of egg marketing units.

Calvin West, Edgerton, was elected president, Mrs. Frank Croak, Evansville, vice president, and F. B. Wilke, Deloit, secretary and treasurer. Regular meetings will be held at which time poultry programs will be arranged for the disseminating of information. While not organized primarily for holding poultry shows, a county-wide exhibit was discussed either in Jansville or in Beloit in connection with the annual exhibit of the active Beloit association.

Since there is such a demand for quality eggs, a number were introduced in the marketing issue. This was declared to be a local community problem since eggs of one color have to be well packed and graded and a constant supply maintained in order to obtain the premium. Many of the best poultry breeders of the county having inspected flocks are now getting a premium for their eggs for hatching purposes.

"There is need for poultry development in Rock county," declared Calvin West. "Our chickens do not compare with our livestock and poultry is proving itself to be a very important department of farming. The farm women are making the poultry game a success. One of the first things to get behind and support the junior poultry club."

"There is no reason for keeping hens at a loss," declared J. B. Hayes, Madison. "Through county co-operation superior poultry can be developed on a county basis—not favoring any one breed."

The new county association officers will meet with the junior club advisory committee with the prospect of the best flocks of the county at a lower price for the children than was first announced.

The Beloit association, having more than 40 members, have been active since organization, holding an annual show with classes for utility stock and will continue to function as a local association joining in with the county unit.

"The main poultry problem is to increase profits by cutting down production costs," declared Hayes. "Thus far there is a greater demand for high quality eggs than there is a demand—but first you cannot get this good market and premium unless you lay the foundation for quality marketing. It would be easy for poultry breeders of this county to unite, grade and pack their eggs right and obtain from a 10 to 15 cent premium."

On the vote taken by County Agent H. T. Glasco all present were in favor of forming the county association.

The next meeting will be held in the court house on March 15. Directors representing different sections of the county will be named at this meeting, a program outlined for association work and a lecture held. Similar meetings for the discussion of poultry subjects will be held at regular periods.

In Seattle, Wash., Feb. 6, 1898, to June 30, 1923, the F. O. E. paid out $38,788,000 in sick and funeral benefits and for medical services, Judge O'Donnell declared.

"An organization," he continued, "founded upon the principles and guided by the precepts of the fraternal Order of Eagles cannot fail to prove of great value to the individual members, the collective body, and the community in which it functions."

As citizens, the speaker declared, the Eagles have been prominent in supporting beneficial legislation. He mentioned as some of the laws supported by the 1,700 aerie, pensions for widowed mothers, workmen's compensation, a saving wage, the eight-hour day, regulation of child labor, and the minimum wage and maximum hours in employment of women.

Patriotic Fund Established
He spoke of the establishment of a lodge fund which has grown to nearly $1,500,000, out of which has been paid $1,000 to the dependents of each member of the order who lost his life in the world war.

"Nearly 50,000,000 Eagles served in the war and more than 1,300 lost their lives in that service," said Judge O'Donnell.

Gum Chewing Aids the Teeth

You have the authority of doctors and dentists for this statement. Your own experience will prove it, if you will use WRIGLEY'S after every meal.

The following quotations from a recent work on teeth and health are worth remembering:

"Dentists have found that the exercise of gum chewing brings about a better nutrition of the teeth . . ."

"The cleansing action of the gum between the teeth helps to keep them free from the particles which lodge in the crevices and cause decay."

The busy man—or woman either—rarely has time to clean the teeth after eating. Yet they should be cleaned, and will do it. Also it will aid digestion and furnish welcome refreshment to mouth and throat.

A Tribute to Service

In the February 3 issue of the Chicago Herald-Examiner, Mr. Arthur Brisbane says: "Henry Ford said to this writer a couple of years ago — 'Standard Oil is the most ably managed concern in the United States.'"

Naturally such sweeping commendation is gratifying but if, as we suspect, and want to believe, Mr. Ford's remark was prompted by his knowledge that this Company is succeeding in rendering a superior service to the public, then it is doubly pleasing.

For service in its biggest, broadest interpretation is the principle governing all the activities of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The Management of this Company construes the perfunctory manufacture and delivery of products as something less than service.

It is the whole-souled, enthusiastic performance of these functions that constitutes real service.

To gain a new and useful product from a single base — crude petroleum — without in any way affecting the quality of other useful products—that is service.

To maintain, unflinchingly, a superior standard of quality—that is service.

To make it possible for the man in the remote places to get Standard Oil products with dependable regularity—that is service.

To produce an oil that will increase the revolutions per minute of machinery in other essential industries and thereby increase their output—that is service.

To manufacture petroleum products of a quality that will prolong the life and add to the power of the modern internal combustion engine—that is service.

To maintain a fair and equitable price for its products—that is service.

Skill in management of any business is mirrored in the service rendered. An organization which puts profits ahead of service cannot endure.

Firm in its conviction that the greater the service, the greater the profit, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) looks to service as its chief concern.

New Trimmings on an Old Theory.
In 1795 Malthus presented his "Essay on Population," to the world. Then he made more investigations and improved his theory in 1803. That is 120 years ago. In 1924 we have a professor of the state university in Janesville advocating birth control and summoning in its support all the long since discredited theories, conjectures and prophecies of Malthus. The Malthusian theory as stated by himself, who was an English fellow of Oxford and a priest of the Established church of England, is that, "Society will always be hindered by the miseries consequent on the tendency of population to increase faster than the means of subsistence." That was also the theory advanced by Prof. Ross, before the History club, of Janesville. But Mr. Ross expressed himself as being most mightily alarmed as he thinks the dire things Malthus foresaw are already on our heels. Hence, having stopped killing off enough population in order that the rest may live, we must find means to destroy the physical procreation of infants so that the same result will be reached.

Without entering upon the question of the moral wreckage due to fall from such a program or the reign of vice which would become established as a result of the professor's revolution in social obligations, it will be possible to show the absurdity of the figures of Mr. Ross and point out that he is only following in a most specific way the path of a man whose theories have been disproved long ago.

Malthus himself, a clean, high minded thinker, saw as one possibility the thing that Mr. Ross advocates. "Preventive restraint which too often produces vice," is the way he puts it. According to Mr. Ross we are on the very verge of the time when there are no more possibilities of subsistence. That there are no places to develop and no greater quantities of food are to be available hereafter, and that we are very, very soon to reach a point where population will go beyond the subsistence supply, is the Malthus theory. So Malthus thought in 1803. Ross says the present high birth rate and the fact that babies live now when they used to die by the thousands, and the elimination of wars and death from epidemic diseases has brought this about. Malthus in 1803 said that the population of the world would double in 25 years. According to the figures presented by Behm and Wagner, the two greatest authorities on population and percentages of growth and other facts in relation thereto, it would actually take Great Britain 302 years to double in population. The only country that has shown anything like the proportion of increase suggested by Malthus, is the United States, where it took from 1830 to 1920 to double population. France, under the tables prepared by Behm and Wagner, would require 405 years to double.

The world's population has never of course accurately been stated. There are too many obstacles and no method of counting, except by estimate in many of the countries which have no civilized government. In 1660 Riccioli first estimated the world's population at 1000 million; in 1753 Voltaire at 1000 millions while Graberg and Hense in 1813 thought it was 686 millions. In 1832 Behm and Wagner saw 1,433,887,000. The estimates since 1920 are that the world has 1,730,294,000 people living within it and that is probably more nearly correct than any theretofore made.

The Malthusian theory has been found inacceptable and his theory inapplicable on these figures. Else we would have three billion or more people now.

Ross takes no consideration of the per capita increase in production, the enormous amount of vacant lands yet untitled and the possibilities of their development. If he had done so, he would have had no basis for an argument in favor of birth control and the establishment of legalized moral crime, if we may use that paradoxical phrase. There are some 400 million acres of good land which are not tilled in the United States. There are more in Mexico. South America has only been settled on the ocean borders. If we except Argentina and the southeastern sections of Brazil. What nonsense to talk of a starving world, with a population far beyond the production of subsisting foods, in 74 years, when there are 3,000 miles of territory cut by the Amazon through a rich, productive soil, practically untitled, peopled by a few scattered savages, and capable of sustaining a population as large as that of the United States. We have surplus food waiting in the markets of the United States right now sufficient to feed 60 million people for months and are talking of curtailing production to get a fair price in keeping with production costs.

Ross and Malthus are discredited by time and facts. Their finely spun theories fall in the cold light of figures. There may be a time when the world is filled "to the brim" with people. But it will not be stopped by killing off a few babies or preventing their entrance into the world. There may be spots where crowded conditions will demand drastic measures in spreading populations to thin them out. Malthus thought of production as only an act of nature and without the added impulse of invention's artificial aid. What Ross thinks, no one knows for he is given to many expressions which he may call bold but are really the ballyhoo calling attention to his sociological sideshow.

Malthus summed up his moral restraint with,

Dinosaur Tracks in Virginia
By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.
Washington.—A long slab of dark, grayish stone has recently been placed on exhibit in the National Museum. On this slab can be seen strange imprints. They suggest the fantastic idea that a huge bird with claws larger than a man's hand might have walked across the rock and left his footprints in the stone as it were soft mud. This explanation appears commonplace, however, in comparison with the real one, for these are the footprints left by a three-toed dinosaur some 25,000,000 years ago.

To science the most interesting fact about these fossilized footprints is that they were found in Virginia. Tracks of great prehistoric reptiles have been found at different times in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and some other places. Presumably the dinosaurs were widely scattered. The arrangement of the tracks and continents was much different in their day, and the huge, lumbering creatures, some of them 65 feet long, could travel great distances with comparative ease. At any rate, remains similar in character are found in different parts of the earth. The new footprint exhibit is the first evidence of dinosaurs in prehistoric Virginia.

The quarry from which the slab was taken has yielded a number of specimens of dinosaur prints. It is a quarry of slate-like stone from which stones for building are cut. It is located a few miles from Leesburg, on an estate which once belonged to President Monroe. Recently the present owner of the estate began to cut stone from the quarry to make a new porch for the Monroe house. It was while this work was in progress that slabs displaying the dinosaur tracks were discovered in an upturned ledge. The owner has used some of the imprinted slabs in the floor of his porch.

The study of fossils may sound like a dead and dry subject, but the paleontologist looks at a simple slab of stone of this sort and points out amazing things. One gets the feeling that he has been listening not only to a very learned man but to a formidable rival of Sherlock Holmes.

Thus, the scientist explains that a large dinosaur and a very young dinosaur walked together across prehistoric Virginia on the day that the museum's exhibit came into existence. He also shows that a few days later the same large dinosaur, another about its size, walked over the hardening ground and left another set of lighter tracks to be preserved in the same slab.

This is not so impressive as the deductions from another specimen of rock. Any layman seeing the Virginia exhibit would notice the large, clear-cut prints, and speculate regarding them. But another slab on the museum walls shows only a vague unevenness of surface. Yet the card beside it says that a dinosaur left his tracks there and that a shower followed and that after the rain another dinosaur walked past and left his footprints.

Dr. J. W. Gidley, of the National Museum, explains that certain conditions were necessary for the footprints to be preserved in stone through millions of years. The prints are found mostly in sandstone and shale. Aens ago, the sandstone was soft sand and the shale was mud. Prehistoric reptiles and mammals roamed through jungles and forests and along rivers, leaving their heavy footprints everywhere. Most of these prints were soon obliterated by rain, time, and erosion.

Occasionally, though, a dinosaur walking by a river might make well-defined tracks in the sand and hard mud. These prints hardened in the sun and then the tide or a river flood swept over them, covering the ground with a softer layer of earthy material. This material would fill in the hardened print, but later, being soft, it would be washed away or worn away still leaving the print.

In time, the mud in which the prints were fixed would be packed down, perhaps buried a mile or more underground through steady accumulation of soil and sediment. Thus, its prints intact, would become hard mud. Ages later, upheavals and erosion might bring it to the surface. Or the souvenir of prehistoric times might be brought to light by men mining for coal deep in the earth. Some such history as this accounts for the preservation and discovery of specimens of dinosaur footprints.

Records of prehistoric showers are preserved in the same way. A heavy shower, or especially a small storm, would leave round pits in fairly hard mud or fine sand. If reptile tracks on a pitted surface are smooth, unmarked by the round pits, surface says that the tracks were made after rain. But if other tracks are marked with the round depressions, then the rain obviously fell on them.

When stones with fossil footprints were first found in the Connecticut valley, scientists thought that great birds must have made the prints. It was evident that the creatures were three-toed and that they had long, thin legs. But as bones of the dinosaurs were discovered and identified it became apparent that some of these prehistoric reptiles had walked on their hind legs, and that three-toed dinosaurs would have made just such prints.

This year might well be regarded as a century of the dinosaurs. It was in 1824 that dinosaur bones were first recognized as belonging to a distinct prehistoric type of animal. Almost up to that time such fossil bones as were found were regarded as strange natural phenomena. It was supposed that they were rocks or possibly shaped and resembling bones, or that they were the bones of animals of comparatively modern times.

Gradually, by piecing together the evidence found in the earth, scientists have made the dinosaurs seem real. Bones are fitted together into skeletons. Prints preserved in rock like the footprints, show the quality of dinosaur hide and the scale plates of the armored monsters. Footprints indicate the length of the reptile's stride, the way of walking, and the quality of skin that covered their feet.

We know now that some of the dinosaurs were as small as chickens, while other types were veritable monsters and weighed 25 or 30 tons. We know that some were vegetarians, or as the scientists say, herbivorous, and that others ate flesh.

"Do not marry until you have a fair prospect of supporting a family," Ross sums up his by suggesting that marriage, being an animal institution may be safely contracted if children are prevented from entering into this life. Malthus said the three checks on population growth were "moral restraint, vice, and misery." Ross seems to have only one—vice.

We prefer the pedantic impossibilities of Malthus to the race destroying possibilities of Ross.

Mr. Gandhi says he should not have been let out of prison because he never did anything to get in. This peculiar reasoning would appeal heavily to Gov. Blaine when he has the next pardon list before him.

JUST FOLKS
By EDGAR A. GUEST
OUT IN THE WORLD
I would not shrink to look upon the fight,
Nor ask a life untouched by doubt or care;
Lord, give me strength to battle for the right
And courage for the burdens I must bear.
I seek not always shelter from the rain—
A timid child at life's small window pane.

The wind blew yesterday. A cruel storm
Swarled at the tollers of the busy world,
And at my little window, snug and warm,
I watched the angry snow drifts as they swirled.
Thought I: "The weaklings at their firesides
Only the brave men venture out today!"

Grant me the open world where tempests blow,
A man's place in the ranks of men I'd fill,
Grant me to brave my share of doubt and woe,
To dull complaining let my voice be still;
Let me be out there, fighting night and main,
Not an on-looker at some woe done pain.

Lovely fountain, iridescent,
Nature's jewels do gleam in thee,
Perfumed winds blown over gardens,
Spiry rhythm magnificently,
When the night comes down to fold thee
In her dusky, spangled hair,
Stars lie in the pool below thee,
Lovely fountain, murmuring there.

HOROSCOPE
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1924.
Astrologers read this as a lucky day, for Jupiter and Mars dominate it in benefic aspect.

It is held to be a most favorable time for buying or selling all merchandise operations. Jupiter is in a place believed to be fortunate for all men who carry business or political responsibilities, making for successful leadership and helpful associations.

Judges and lawyers of every rank should benefit from this day's position of the stars.

It is a time to push enterprises of every sort, to seek new fields of trade and to solicit new business.

Many smiles on all constructive projects and projects of all kinds in 1924, despite the rise in certain materials.

Mechanics and contractors will prosper and they will extend their interests to foreign countries, especially to those of South America, the seers predict.

During this rule physical exercise and all efforts to develop muscular strength are supposed to be peculiarly beneficial.

War and peace will be discussed with renewed interest in the next few weeks, if the signs are read aright.

Many secret plots and numerous efforts to embarrass the United States in regard to foreign relations may be expected.

The evening of this day is a good time for pleasant recreation, but not favorable for matters of real moment.

The spirit of buying which has been so dominant and so exposed at last considerations of thrift will still be strong in the United States during 1924, but will be regretted later, it is prophesied.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the urgency of a year of real prosperity. Money and business interests should increase.

Children born on this day have the "forecast" of happy, care-free lives. These subjects of Pisces probably will have musical gifts. They have a happy outlook for marriage.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Lemon and Liver.
Kindly tell me whether half a lemon taken in a pint of water each morning before breakfast will help in any way to stimulate a torpid liver which is enlarged. Also whether it will have any injurious effect on the blood if one is inclined to anemia.

Answer.—Owing to their citric acid content all the citrus fruits—grapefruit, orange, lemon, lime, tangerine—tend to stimulate the flow of bile. It will not injure the blood.

Is pleurisy in the lung dangerous? I know there are two kinds of pleurisy, dry and wet. Which kind is the more dangerous? Would radium treatments cure this trouble? (S. H. A.)

Answer.—Pleurisy is inflammation of the pleura, the membrane which lines the chest cavity and covers the lungs. Perhaps simple dry pleurisy is more dangerous than wet. I do not know of any special benefit from radium treatment for pleurisy.

Is there any danger of contracting syphilis by bathing in the tub used by persons who have had syphilis? Would a disinfectant be advisable in such a case? If so, what? (H. S.)

Answer.—If you know there is no evidence that any disease is ever contracted from using the tub. There is no danger of contracting syphilis from a bath tub than from a shower bath and water scrubbing. A shower bath is the safer.

My husband is trying to reduce and wants to know what to eat that is not fattening. Which kind is the best? (Mrs. C. A.)

Answer.—Friend husband had better take a short cut through the woods. If he is serious about reducing, he must follow this simple path which so many thousands of the more credulous have followed in the vain attempt to reduce. In no case does restriction in the amount of sugar gives the quickest results. In others, restriction in the amount of fat or starch foods—but in all cases it is a clear proposition of eating less and exercising more.

START ALTERATIONS ON MYERS HOME
Harry Summers, Janesville contractor, who recently purchased the stately old Myers residence at 7 South 2nd street, has started alterations on the structure to transform it into a four apartment building. A building permit has been taken out, listing the cost of the work at $1,000. The residence has been subdivided into two apartments for some time. The St. Paul railroad company, through the Marshall Oil company, has taken out a building permit for the erection of a $2,500 bulk gasoline station on its property in Janesville. Robert's grocery, 1022 Pleasant street, has been issued a permit for a gasoline pump. These three were the only ones issued at the city hall the past week.

2954 for New First Gives Five Men Spectacular Windup

Green Bay Quint Takes $425 Prize on Closing Shift

Marathoning their way into first place of the five man division with a score of 2,954 by staging a sensational exhibition on the very last shift of that section, Bobby Lynch's Allens of Green Bay gave the 22nd annual tournament of the Wisconsin Bowling Association the most spectacular team windup in its history, Sunday night.

It was the most remarkable showing of the 1924 meet. By so doing, they ruthlessly shoved the Tegmeyer Jewelers of Milwaukee, who had held the mightiest seat of the tourney for two weeks, into second place by a margin of but seven pins and grabbed off first money of $425.

There was no scene in the whole month of rolling that anywhere near equalled the enthusiasm of the gallery. The fans pulled and perspired as hard as the bowlers.

As with most of the high scores, this was made on the top floor alleys.

Got the Breaks
The Breaks began unusually well with the big advantage in big time style of every one that came along. They fought with power in every frame for all the while that they could inveigle into tumbling.

At home, the team is considered among the finest, but they came here as an outfit to win, and they paid much attention to the one of placing. Thus, once again the unexpected came to pass to keep up the surprising that makes bowling a delight.

Cutting a wide swath through the people forest in the first game with 955, the five men came back with a supreme attack of the second game for 1,003. As they went into the third game with 1,958 up, they suddenly moved down at the end of the 25th, they were working on 2,700.

Not even then did they falter, but swung a wicked setting, and with a double and stern determination, Recke, second man, hit into a 5-7 split in the eighth, he clipped it off.

Going into the ninth frame of the final game, Recke felt an adverse blow. It only made the boys harder for Recke. He and Nabor sparred and Recke plugged a strike. Recke then hit a 7-10 split and Bertrand suffered a blow.

The Last Frame
Every pin was needed. Malouf made up for previous scores by striking out the other nine, and a tremendous applause. Recke came across with a spare and Nabor followed with a spare. Working on a strike, Recke hit a 7-10 split, but when he fell into a 7-10 split, but did the best possible and made nine. When Bertrand came up, the score of the 22nd game was 2,954, three pins less than the necessary to go into the lead. Trying for all he could get, the anchor plunked the ball into the hole and gave a 7-5 split starting him in the face, but it was enough to win.

A summary of the work of the final game shows that it had 71 strikes; 65 spares; 12 strikes and 12 spares were picked; 12 blows and a cherry. Malouf was high man with 551. The score in detail:

GREEN BAY	210	231	204	551
M. Malouf	167	175	201	543
L. Recke	167	175	201	543
A. Nabor	167	175	201	543
W. Helke	167	175	201	543
G. Bertrand	167	175	201	543
Totals	855	1003	900	2958

With the five man bowling concluded, doubles and singles play continued at the ten pins Monday night. The final attack upon the maples, they were left on curtain upon the 12th classic at 5 p. m. Sunday.

Low Money Is 25c
Secretary William F. Fenwick started on Monday to check the results of the teams to make ready for the payment of prize money. The total amount of prize money divided is $3,215. Of this $3,215 is in 274 regular prizes and $315 is in 112 regular prizes for Janesville teams.

High Single Game of the Meet
High single game of the meet was taken by the Eskimo Pops of Kenosha, a sum of $25 for rolling 1-0-0. Second high single game was given to the Green Bay Quint, $20 for 1-0-0.

It will interest the bowlers to know that the lowest team score that will get into the money is 2,582. Milwaukee team, who took the lion's share of the cash.

Red Top Oil, Milwaukee, hit 2-807 (953-910-840-840).

Twelfth place in the doubles was grabbed off on Sunday by C. Groom and T. Yahr of West Bend, who romped in with 1,204 with games of 614 (600-176-238).
